

Katherine Horton <contact@stop007.org>

disinformation (an observation)

1 message

Erika Meyer <ekm@seastorm.com>

28 February 2019 at 23:36

To: Katherine Horton <contact@stop007.org>

Dear Katherine,

Here's my response to the Lighthouse link you put on Twitter (PDF download) : http://seastorm.com/lighthouse/richard_lighthouse_usaf_book_problems.pdf

I'm very sorry to hear about what you're going through in terms of attacks. It is my opinion that you are being targeted heavily not only with neuro-weaponry but you're being trolled by an avalanche of disinformation agents. I get trolled by them too. In my case, they come in waves. I think that in my case, a big pot of money shows up somewhere, gets distributed, and that is when they all come after me.

I think the damage done by these people should we get caught in one of their nets is not to be underestimated. One of the biggest things you have going for yourself is valid academic and scientific credentials, therefore, that is what they are targeting. Lighthouse is an embarrassment. Also, they are trying to paint you (and me) as "violent." With that as a background this very unprofessional publishing of family names and home addresses (which are not necessary) is potentially very damaging.

One pattern I've seen with disinformation is pushing people to challenge the wrong entities. I've found that I'm being pushed to attack the Vatican and the Queen of England. I truly don't think either of these routes are bound to be helpful.

My opinion is that if people cannot show credentials or provide real support for their claims, they should be dismissed outright. This is too serious to play around with these charlatans.

Erika